SQUIRREL CAUSED FREER ACCIDENT

In Swerving to Avoid It in Road, Albany Avenue Woman Lost Control of Car and Went Over Embankment—Is Resting Comfortably.

Mrs. Watson Freer while driving along the Ashokan boulevard near the Spillway Friday afternoon suddenly lost control of the automobile and it shot off the road and down an embankment and upset.

Mrs. Freer had been driving around the Ashokan reservoir all day as she does frequently, and on account of the approach of dusk she increased speed when she struck the level stretch of highway near Markle Heights. The car was traveling about thirty-five miles an hour on the straight stretch when Mrs. Freer noticed a squirrel run out from the woods alongside the highway. To avoid running over the squirrel, she gave the steering wheel a quick turn to the left and then tried to turn it again to the right so as to resume her course on the straight-away stretch.

In traveling at the rate at which the car was going, Mrs. Freer may have miscalculated the distance the car would cover in the brief interval between the two turns of the steering wheel, and her frail strength probably was insufficient to bring the car back on its course as quickly as she intended. She found the car going off the roadway and apparently headed toward a big tree which was in her path. She recalls nothing more until she awoke at the Kingston City Hospital several hours later.

On regaining consciousness at the hospital, Mrs. Freer was suffering from the shock of the accident and was unable to tell what had happened, but after a comfortable night's rest she told of her experience.

On physical examination it was found that no bones apparently had been broken, but an X-ray examination was made at the hospital during the day to determine the exact extent of her injuries. Apparently Mrs. Freer was suffering mostly from nervous shock.

The place where the car, which is an enclosed five passenger Hudson left the road was at a fork in the road between Markle's road and Markle Heights, near the Spillway on the Ashokan Boulevard.

Shortly after the accident R. Ward Harvey, who is employed on the Ashokan water works, was driving his Ford car into Kingston and as he reached the fork in the road he stopped his car and turning to another man, who was riding with him, said that it looked as though a car had left the road at that point. Police Officer Healey, who was driving around the reservoir in his car, was right behind the Harvey car and he stopped also and they went to investigate and looking down the embankment they saw the Freer car at the bottom. The upset car could not be seen from the road.

Clambering down the bank they found that there was a woman pinned in the car, and managed to extricate her. They found that while unconscious she was still alive, and she was carried up the bank and placed in Officer Healey's car and hurried to the hospital.

Officer Healey also notified Chief of Police Wood of the accident, and the police began making an investigation to ascertain who the woman was.

At the hospital when she recovered consciousness she was identified by Dr. E. E. Norwood as Mrs. Watson Freer, and her family were notified.

Later in the afternoon Mr. Harvey brought the articles he found in the upset car to police headquarters. They included her purse which contained $171 in bills and her fur, the auto robe and other articles.

COUNTY TAXES ARE REDUCED

Interest On Bonds Not To Be Met By Tax On Real and Personal Property, Reducing Ulster's Share About 33 1-3 Per Cent.

State Comptroller James A. Wendell has sent the following letter with notice to Chairman John H. Saxe, and Henry R. DeWitt, clerk of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, in regard to the amount of money it will be necessary to be raised in Ulster county by taxation for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1921. The letter and notice explain themselves. Last year the total amount raised by taxation in the county for all state purposes was $166,330.66 and as this year it will be $108,095.99 the total amount to be raised for the fiscal year in the county for all purposes will be $58,234.67 less.

The letter is as follows:

October 5, 1921.
Chairman, Board of Supervisors,
Ulster County,
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:—
You are requested to return the notice heretofore sent you requiring the raising of taxes for state purposes for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1921 and to substitute in its place the corrected notice sent herewith.

This course is made necessary by reason of an opinion rendered by the attorney general, which states that the part of Chapter 396 of the laws of 1921 requiring the levying of a tax of .7727 mills for state debt service is invalid and void because it includes interest on Soldiers' and Sailors' bonus bonds, which bonds have been declared by the Court of Appeals to be unconstitutional.

The result of the elimination of the tax of .7727 mills for state debt service will be a reduction of $11,475,359.67 in the total tax to be levied for state purposes. This amount will have to be met from the general fund of the state instead of by a tax upon the real and personal property of the state.

It is expected that you will give this matter your prompt attention, returning the tax notices requested, and placing in your budget for this year the amounts to be raised for state purposes as indicated in the corrected notice enclosed.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES A. WENDELL,
Comptroller.

By
E. P. KEARNEY,
Deputy Comptroller,
Albany, October 5, 1921.

To
Chairman, Board of Supervisors,
Ulster County,
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:—
The Board of Supervisors of the County of Ulster is hereby required to raise by taxation for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1921, the sum of $108,095.99 for the following purposes:

Direct State Tax on an equalized valuation of $61,845,769

For General purposes, mill rate .0043 $ 265.94
For Support of Common Schools, Teachers, etc., mill rate 1.5 92,768.65

$ 93,034.59

For Armory purposes 8,837.04

For Court and Stenographers expenses on an assessed valuation of $1,072,451 6,224.36

Total $108,095.99

Armory purpose tax is levied pursuant to the Military Law as amended; Court and Stenographers expenses pursuant to the Judiciary Law as amended, Chapters 176 and 458, Laws of 1921; and Article 6, Section 12 of the State Constitution. Respectfully yours,
JAMES A. WENDELL,
Comptroller.

FOUND GUILTY OF KILLING WIFE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Lakeport, Cal., Oct. 8.—The Rev. John A. Spencer, elderly, retired clergyman, early today was found guilty of murder in the first degree after six hours' deliberation by the jury which had heard the evidence charging him with having killed his wife by drowning her in Clear Lake on the night of July 27. The jury recommended that he be sentenced to prison for life.

The "little pastor," as he was known throughout Sonoma and Lake counties, received the verdict calmly. But a few people were present in the court room when the jury announced its agreement. Spencer will be sentenced Monday. His attorneys probably will enter an appeal.

ERIE MAY BUY D. AND N. ROAD

President Underwood of the Erie Railroad system and one of the officials of the freight department created considerable excitement at Andes recently when it was learned that they had been making an inspection trip and survey of the Delaware & Northern railroad in the motor car of the superintendent of right of way.

Their visit led to rumors that the Erie intends to buy the Delaware & Northern, and eventually to extend the road from East Branch, where it now connects with the New York, Ontario & Western railroad, to Callicoon, where it would connect with the Erie. Further extension, it was rumored, would be from Arkville, by way of Gilboa and Schoharie, to meet the Delaware & Hudson railroad near Schenectady. The Andes branch, it was expected, also would be extended as far as Bovina, making use of the old roadbed which already has been graded.

"Whether this plan will be realized is, of course, a question," says an Andes correspondent, "but everyone is hoping for a change to take place, preferring the Erie to the O. & W. The Erie could make the D. & N. pay, for should a sale take place the tremendous overhead due to the Margaretville shops and offices would be swept away, without the addition of a single clerk or round-houseman at the Binghamton terminal of the Erie. It is presumed, however, that the purchase price will be so great that the Erie will never take further action."

400 FEET BELOW GROUND FOR HOURS

During the severe storm which swept over Ulster county last week, the high tension electric power line which supplies power for construction work on the Gilboa dam and Shandaken tunnel, besides furnishing light for a large section of the Catskill mountains, was broken between Kingston and Allaben.

One effect of the break was to shut off power and lights at the various shafts of the Shandaken tunnel. At Shaft No. 1, the workmen were four hundred feet below the surface of the ground. Without lights they were unable to work, and without power they were unable to get to the surface in the electric hoist. There was nothing for them to do except to remain at the foot of the shaft until repairs were made, which was for two o'clock Sunday morning. As there is considerable seepage at the shafts and tunnels, their experience was far from pleasant.

Some hours after the break between Kingston and Allaben, a large tree near Grand Gorge was broken in two and dropped on a guy wire holding a span of the line which supplies Sanford with light, pulling the wires so low they were severed by an afternoon railroad train. Several hours' work were required to put the line in repair.

Fleischmanns' Road Sold.
The Home Switzerland at Fleischmanns, Delaware county, has been sold by Roman Brothers, who owned and operated it during the past season. The purchasers are understood to be New York city parties who paid $30,000 for the property and intend to spend a considerable sum for improvements.

Large Camp Site Sold.
William W. Roberts has sold his 192 acre farm two miles north of New Paltz, on the state road to Col. Board of New York city who expects to equip it as a camp for five hundred boys.

The Freeman with this story of the ceremonies, the history of the society and the names of the members and donors to the building fund will be placed in the receptacle in the corner stone.

The Building Committee.
The members of the building committee who have worked long and faithfully to make their dream come true are: Antoni Kaminski, president; Wladyslaw Witkowski, secretary; Antoni Lukaszewski, Kasimir Hudela, Stanislaw Musialkiewicz, Wladyslaw Lukaszewski, Stanislaw Rydzewski, Jan Prucnal, Kostanty Guzik, Adam Dudek, Wladyslaw Raczkowski.

Description Of Building.
The plans for the hall were drawn by Architect Thomas P. Rice, and the contract for the masonry has been awarded to Charles J. Michaud and for the carpenter work to T. Kowal of Ten Broeck avenue. The building will be 80 to 100 feet inside, two stories in height and of brick construction. In the cellar will be the heating plant, the bowling alleys, toilets, shower baths and a large and commodious kitchen. On the first floor will be the library, the lounge room, pool room, and the meeting room of the society. The second floor will be used for the large auditorium and stage which will be used for amateur entertainments given by the society, and also as a dance hall when the occasion requires. The ladies' retiring rooms will also be on this floor.

Where Hall Is Located.
The hall is being erected on Delaware avenue adjoining the Church of the Immaculate Conception. The work of excavating the cellar was done during the summer by the members of the society who are all hard working men, but since the work of erecting the hall was started each man after his day's work was completed would spend several hours on the job. The idea of having a hall had been agitated by members of the society for a number of years, and finally it resulted in the appointment of the building committee who have been untiring in their work to make the consummation of the plans for the new building a success.

Undoubtedly there will be a large attendance at the ceremonies this afternoon.

MRS. "BABE" GETS 50-50 SPLIT

"He Hands Over Check Every Pay Day And Will Do Same With Series Money" Says Queen Of Swat As She Stares Daggers At Giant Pitchers—Predicts 4 Home-ers For Husband.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 8.—What of the wives and mothers of the baseball heroes as the glory of their beloved ones wanes in the balance in the world series?

Today Mrs. "Babe" Ruth sits at home nursing the ulcerated arm of her king but when the great bambino is at the bat does she wait as a patient Penelope for the return to the family fireside of her hero to soothe his sore because he means the fate that will not let him have one teeny weeny home run triumph in the battle with the Giants.

No, girlie, Mrs. "Babe" sits in a box over the dugout where the Yankees retire between innings and stares daggers at those awful Giant pitchers.

A pretty, plump brunette, she was a vivid picture yesterday afternoon. The crown worn by the queen of the king of swat was a wonderful thing of scarlet.

She chewed gum viciously as she permitted herself to be interviewed. "Mrs. Ruth, what does your husband's achievement in baseball mean to you?" asked the interviewer.

"Fifty, fifty," said the great "Babe's" queen.

She chewed with meditative care as she proceeded.

"He hands over his check every payday and he'll do the same with his money in this series. I'll split fifty fifty with him."

"What do you do to stimulate your husband's success?" asked the interviewer.

"Talk baseball," said Mrs. Babe, following a momentary cessation of the gum operations. "I talk it all the time," said Mrs. Babe.

"Sure, I know every kink of the game." Efforts to get Mrs. Babe to reveal some of the hardships in the life of a gold plated baseball player's wife were of no avail.

"I go traveling with Babe all the time," she said, "and when he goes into vaudeville after this series I'll go along part of the time."

Some of the Giants appeared on the field. Mrs. Babe glared at them. "They're trying to freeze Babe out of home runs but he'll get four of 'em."

"They think they're smart," said Mrs. Babe with a vicious chew.

DETROIT BANDITS MAKE BIG HAUL

Lone Mail Messenger Carrying Bank And Other Funds Sold To Total $300,000, Robbed At Detroit's Point—Rare Truck Says It's Funds Were Not Involved.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Detroit, Mich., Oct. 8.—With roads leading from Detroit into Toledo, Pontiac, Mt. Clemens and other communities guarded by armed posses, a sweeping search of Detroit's underworld resorts is being conducted today in an effort to find the four bandits who staged what is believed to be a more than $300,000 holdup here Friday night.

Funds of the Kenilworth Racing Track, money consigned by Canadian Banks to Detroit correspondents, and registered mail from Canada, were stolen from William R. Macaulay, Royal Mail messenger of Canada, in lower Wayne street.

While no definite information as to the exact amount stolen was obtainable early today it is believed that in view of the size of funds usually carried by the Royal Mail messenger, $300,000 is a conservative estimate.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 8.—Although police continued today to estimate the amount of money secured by the four bandits who robbed William R. Macaulay, Royal Mail messenger, of more than $300,000 Kenilworth Race Track, officials threw cold water on Detroit's $300,000 robbery with the statement that the race track receipts were not carried by the messenger on that trip.

P. R. R. PUTTING IDLE AT WORK

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 8.—Fifteen hundred Pennsylvania car shop workers and engine repairmen were jubilant today over the order just sent out ordering them back to work immediately. Nearly 1,000 men are affected in Pittsburgh. Additional workers were to go on duty in the company shops at Buffalo, Erie, Glens, N. Y., Canton, Ohio, and Denison, Ohio, next Monday. Those workers will be on full time instead of the present schedule of four days a week.

The Pittsburgh and Lake Erie, important New York Central line, has just put 1,240 men back to work and Vice President and General Manager J. B. Yoke said today that within a day or two he would announce the recall of a large number of additional employees.

RAIN AS GAME TIME APPROACHES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 8.—A brisk rain storm that drove the players from the field and the fans from the bleachers threatened to cause a postponement of the fourth game of the world series here this afternoon.

The weather had been threatening all morning and at 1:05 o'clock the clouds let loose. Tarapaulins were spread and the officials decided to await the outcome of the storm before calling the game off.

YANKEES ARE STILL FAVORITES

But Odds Are Shortened To 7 to 5 As Today's Game Time Approaches—Biggest Crowd If Weather Permits.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 8.—The Giants stalked back into the world series today.

McGraw's swat artists have their batting clothes on at last. They have also been stung to the point where they will fight back and they were out to even things up with the Yankees this afternoon.

A victory for the Giants today will make the series look vastly different and much depends on today's game.

Carl Mays, was the logical selection of Manager Huggins of the Yanks. The subway delivery specialist stood the Giants on their heads in the first game and Huggins must use him again today or send Harry Harper to the mound. Harper, a wonderful pitcher when he is right, is undependable as a rule. Choosing him to pitch is the same as buying a lottery ticket. So Mays looked like the hot carrier.

Giant fans, and critics who have been watching McGraw's tactics believed that he would shoot Phil Douglas back at the Yanks today. Douglas is one of the biggest and strongest pitchers in either major league. He can stand lots of work. Two days rest is enough for him. If he can come back today at all he stands a fine chance of winning, according to Giant philosophers, because no one expects to see Mays pitch another such game as he did in the opener.

With a game tucked in the bat bag the Giants today looked like a team that may carry the series quite a ways, and if they succeed all sorts of records will go by the boards.

Paid attendance to date has already passed the 100,000 mark and receipts have overshot $335,000 which is a record for the first three games.

If the teams should play eight games, more than 300,000 fans will witness them and more than $750,000 will be taken in at the box offices. No previous series has had dimensions of this one for possible attendance or receipts and by the prices and New York monopoly it may be quite a while before another series approaches it.

The weather today was threatening. Overcast skies greeted the fans when they crawled out of their downers this morning and the weatherman predicted rain with a possible clearing of the atmosphere by game time.

The biggest crowd of the series was expected to witness today's game. This being Saturday practically every New Yorker had a half day off and everyone who thought he had a chance to get into the Polo Grounds started shortly after the noon hour. Where 36,500 paid to enter the brush stadium yesterday it was estimated that fully 39,000 would attend today's game as paid customers and at least ten thousand would be turned away.

Betting on the series, which found odds strongly in favor of the Yanks Friday, simmered down today. The Yanks, with two victories to one for the Giants are still favorites, but the odds dropped back to 7 to 5 from a plane of 2 to 1 in many instances.

WEDNESDAY DAY OF ATONEMENT

From sunset on Tuesday, October 11th, until sunset on Wednesday evening, October 12th, the Jewish people will, everywhere, gather for the observance of Yom Kippur in their several places of worship and there, in meditation and prayer, forgetful of the world outside, revive their confidence in the eventual triumph of God's love and justice, and the brotherhood of man.

The Day of Atonement, known as Yom Kippur, in Hebrew, is mentioned in the Bible. In the book of Leviticus, chapter 16, the elaborate priestly ceremonial of atonement is described. In Leviticus 23:26-32, the observance of Yom Kippur is enjoined as a holy day whereon affliction of the soul (fasting, etc.) is to be practiced.

The public service of the Day of Atonement begins at sundown with a solemn and plaintive prayer-melody, known as Kol Nidre ("all vows"), which refers to vows appertaining to the conscience of the individual. Throughout the whole day following, the service is continuous, the intent of which is to awaken within the worshipper a consciousness of his need to orientate himself spiritually, that he may the more worthily do his work in this world. The day-long service culminates in the Neilah service, in which forgiveness is besought for all mankind as fervently as for the individual Jew who utters the prayer. Not the punishment of the sinner, but repentance for his failings and weaknesses, and courage to walk under the burden of life, valiantly, is the keynote of the concluding service.

In modern times a memorial service is also a feature of the day. This service reminds the worshipper that death is a consummation of life, and should not be feared. No one who has lived worthily is forgotten, nor is his life void. All who contribute to the attainment of man's hope of redemption from poverty, war, famine, sickness, selfishness, and exploitation hasten the advent of the Kingdom of God, which is established as the result of every person's effort to better conditions of life. The memorial service on the Day of Atonement is crowded with tender memories, but utilizes the solemn moment to drive home the paramount duty of living for humanity.

The Wide Spaces.
The air was very clear and crystalline. The lightness on the ends of the twin piers, though some miles distant, seemed close at hand. White herring gulls, cruising against the blue, dashed white as the sails of a distant ship. A fresh breeze darkened the blue velvet surface of the water, tumbling the white foam hither on the beach, blew forward over the dunes a few hurrying mist of sand, and here to Orde at last the refreshment of the wide spaces.—Stewart Edward White.

Can Curve Torpedoes.
A new system of torpedo fire control by which the firing of torpedoes in a curved course is automatically controlled has been perfected by John Hays Hammond, Jr., he announced.

By means of this system, he said, a battleship or submarine could fire a torpedo at a target in any direction without changing the course of the vessel. Submarines equipped with the system could attack two targets at the same time.

Among other inventions of Mr. Hammond are the wireless controlled torpedo, a projectile that scatters motionless, a radio-controlled warship and a radio airplane control.

BUT HE BACKSLID

Aunt Nancy's "Gorilla" Forgot His Religion.

Which Explained the Necessity for Taking Up a Collection in the Camp Meeting.

The camp at East Fork has not only developed some marvelous fishermen, but it has brought some hitherto undreamed-of powers of imagination among the staid business men in the party. Some half dozen tents shelter the men and women folks and the children, and there is a special cooking tent for Aunt Nancy. They call it the studio, for there the real art work is done, Aunt Nancy having inherited her unusual capability from her mother, who lived and toiled on the old plantation until freedom came.

Grouped about the camp fire the other night the members of the party told and listened to marvelous tales of adventure and mystery. Nancy, the cook, an eager listener, sat back in the shadows until someone spoke up good naturedly: "Now, Nancy, it's your turn. Can't you tell us a ghost story?"

The black woman got up and came a little closer to the fire.

"It's pap's story," modestly explained Nancy. "I heard him tell it a dozen or eight times, I reckon. 'Long toward the end of the war—the war to free the slaves, you know—they was holdin' a big camp meetin' down on Sugar creek bottoms, in Randolph county, pap said. Folks was gettin' awful tired of the shootin' and killin' and stealin', and they just nacherly took to ligion. All the benches was full and big crowds standin' up. Brother Jerry Hardover, pap said, 'was doin' the exhortin' and you could a heard him a mile the way the road runs."

"Towards midnight they was all worked up, some singin', some shoutin' and goin' on like they does when the Dimmyknats hold a county convention up at the co't house. Then a tall, thin man with long hair and a white face gets up and walks forward. They said he was a gorilla—"

"A what," asked one of the auditors.

"A gorilla. They said he'd been with Colonel Bill Anderson and Frank and Jesse James and Mr. Quantrell and them other gentlemen what rode so hard."

"I see."

"And when this gorilla gets in front where the preacher was he pulls out two big guns and a butcher knife and lays 'em on the altar."

"Parson," says he, 'I've been a awful bad man. I'd shoot and kill and burn and steal and do everything that was low down and mean. Then I got a bullet or two in me and had to go home till I got well. While lyin' on the sick bed something said to me, 'Jake, you been a awful bad man, and if you don't quit your cussedness you'll die and go straight to h—l. I'll give you just one more chance. You go down to Parson Hardover's meetin', tell him how bad you been, and hand him your six shooters. Then maybe I'll forgive you.'"

"The preacher held out his hand, but just about that time three men in uniform got up and started for the gorilla, with pistols in their hands."

Nancy paused.

"What happened then?" was asked.

"Well," sighed Nancy, "after the muss was over they sung a hymn, and took up a collection."

"A collection? What did they do that for?"

"To pay for buryin' the three sojers," replied Nancy composedly. "You see, the gorilla—he backslid."—Kansas City Star.

Doubted If She Could Make It.
At a recent gathering of musicians Lieut. John Philip Sousa told the following story:

"We musicians have one thing, we give solace or joy to those who listen," he said. "Sometimes, possibly, we take ourselves too seriously. I recall giving some concerts in St. Louis some years ago, and every morning I went down to my breakfast at the hotel I saw a woman scrubbing the steps and working away very hard. Finally, thinking that possibly a concert would be very entertaining and elevating for her, I stopped her on the stairs one morning and said, 'By the way, would you like to go to a concert tomorrow night?' thinking, of course, she knew me. However, she did not know me. She looked up at me and said: 'Is that your only night off?'—Musical Courier.

KINGSTON'S NEXT MAYOR.

In Walter P. Crane the Republican party has selected as its candidate for the office of mayor of Kingston a business man who is pledged to give the city a business administration. Mr. Crane as head of one of the large business enterprises of Kingston has the best interests of the city at heart. He is a man of sound judgment, of unquestioned business integrity, and eminently fitted to fill the office of mayor in a capable and efficient manner. Mr. Crane is a man who is widely and favorably known throughout the city. He is acquainted with the needs of the city and believes in its future. In electing Mr. Crane mayor this fall the voters of the city, irrespective of party affiliation, will assist materially in advancing the best interests of the city. Every resident of Kingston believes in Kingston, in its progress, and in its future. In promoting the city's interests they realize that in Mr. Crane they will have an official who will give the city a sound business administration. Kingston stands in the front rank of Hudson river cities, and every one who is desirous of seeing the city maintain its position in the forefront should see to it that not only is Mr. Crane elected the next mayor, but that the entire Republican ticket is elected.

PHYSICAL CORRECTION.

According to a modern doctrine that has spread far and wide, even the mildest form of corporal punishment is degrading alike to teacher and pupil, parent and child. Yet when juvenile energy is prone to take the form of deviltry the difficulties confronting moral suasion alone are self-evident. Tried before and after, a Philadelphia teacher snatched a persistently insolent boy, whereupon the parents flew to the defense of their angel child and hailed the teacher before a magistrate. After hearing the evidence, which proved to be very damaging to the youthful offender, the magistrate said:

"I feel I would be doing an injustice to the community if I inducted this teacher on such a trivial charge. If I had every teacher arrested who thrashed me with a cat-o-nine-tails when I was at school there would be a lot of them in jail. Boys, and sometimes girls, need just such punishment as was meted out on this occasion to this boy. Discipline must be preserved in the schools, and teachers are authorized to enforce it. There is no doubt in my mind that this boy deserved exactly what he got. Insubordination on the part of school children can not be tolerated in schools. If discipline is to be preserved, and teachers must take the necessary steps to stamp it out whenever it is in evidence.

This has a wholesome sound suggesting that of a purifying north wind long needed. The average modern parent reads too much trudge on the subject of leading self-willed and unruly youngsters by love alone. He or she is also prone to forget that the complaint the child brings home from school is apt to be one-sided even when not deliberately inaccurate. Few intelligent and observant persons have failed to note the difference in after life between children who were unwisely indulged and those who were sternly corrected at the proper moment, a difference vastly to the credit of the latter. The brutal flogging of past times was indefensible, but judicious physical correction within limits and when urgently needed is fruitful in its results. There is a time for all things, including the rattan that stings but inflicts no injury. The child that is not forced to respect the authority of both parents and teachers will not in after life have any real respect for law or constituted authority in general, even though he may be prudent enough to keep out of jail. The relation between early training of the right sort and good citizenship is practically that of cause and effect.

When women crowded to the Astorice hearings in San Francisco it was supposed that they were eager to see that there was no miscarriage of justice in a case involving the death of one of their own sex. But when Judge announced that the accused was manslaughter, and when these women shrieked and screamed in order to shake his head and congratulate him, it looked as if their uppermost desire had been that the man should escape or get off as lightly as possible. "Women are incomprehensible and do things quite beyond masculine understanding," comments a New York editor. The respected and self-respecting women of the United States would resent such a loose generalization, justly contending that they are in no way involved or misrepresented by the spectacles which "some women" are eager to make of themselves.

ON-A-JOB, OFF-A-JOB JIM!

Being a Story
 Of how Jim got on a job and why he got off it again.

Jim found himself between two fires when he became elevator boy in a large office building. He was in a quandary regarding the policy he should adopt. If he waited a few seconds for a tardy passenger, or crowded one too many people into a fairly well filled elevator, the waiting passengers grumbled and criticized his leniency.

Yet, if he shot upward leaving passengers behind, he could hear from below their remarks, caustic and angry, regarding his lack of consideration. So Jim did not know what to do and was so disgusted with malcontents that were heaped upon his head all day that toward evening, he felt as though he would be forced to do something violent.

"A straw vote, that's what!" he exclaimed, and after begging a piece of cardboard from the girl at the cigar stand, he printed a neat sign. "One vote for every office tenant. Shall the elevator boy wait for tardy passengers and fill the car to capacity, or shall he wait for no one, but when a comfortable number are in the elevator, move on?"

"They will have to vote one way or the other, the majority rules," Jim explained to the girl at the stand, who looked over his shoulder as he printed the letters. "This will get them coming and going. Today the tardy ones who are kicking because they are left behind, will be the early ones tomorrow, kicking because they wait."

On the second morning, he insisted, when possible, upon every person holding a responsible position in the fifty or so offices, handing in a vote. By noon, the "Move on" voters so far exceeded the "Wait a second" advocates that Jim was no longer in doubt regarding his policy.

On one of his trips, Jim's only passenger was a stout woman whose office was on the top floor. "You are a very efficient young man. I like this method you've taken of settling a bothersome matter. It shows that you have executive ability. Would you be interested in another position?"

"That depends, upon several things."

"I need a wide awake man in my office. If you start at the bottom to learn the business, you will soon acquire sufficient knowledge to advance. There is no limit to your earning capacity."

"The woman hesitated. "What are you getting as elevator boy?"

"I don't know."

"You don't know?" Isn't it rather unusual for a man to be working without knowing what his labor is worth?"

Jim did not care to tell her that the job had been his first consideration, not the remuneration. By the woman's attitude, he suspected that she wanted to get him in her employ without paying him very much, and at once he felt antagonistic toward her.

"You may add two dollars a week to what you get as elevator boy."

"Not enough," snapped Jim. "I'm not in the market."

"Well, for a man who hasn't any idea of what his labor is worth."

"Going down," reminded Jim, and ended the conversation.

Attended Meeting of State Historical Society.

The New Paltz Independent says: The editor of the Independent got back Wednesday evening from the annual meeting of the State Historical Society at Lake George. He reports one of the most pleasant times he ever had in his life. Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, first vice-president, presided at all the sessions in the absence of President George Blauvelt, who has been in poor health of late and was unable to attend. Judge Hasbrouck was elected president for the ensuing year. Martin S. Decker made an address and was elected a trustee. Next week we hope to publish an extended account of the addresses made and the places of historical interest visited.

HOW

FRENCH PHYSICIAN ENDED WOMAN'S LONG TRANCE.

The remarkable case of a woman who remained in a trance five years, and the unusual methods by which she was restored to normalcy, were related recently by Dr. Pierre Janet, leading French neurologist, at the annual meeting of the American Neurological Association. This was the first time that Doctor Janet had made public the unusual case, which was extremely interesting to the neurologists because of the extraordinary period in which the woman was apparently unconscious.

Doctor Janet said that the patient, a woman of twenty-one, had first had lapses of memory when she was thirteen, but had quickly recovered from them. During the war she suddenly became unconscious. Forced feeding was resorted to and for many months her mental faculties were apparently dormant.

Once the hospital in which she was lying was bombed by German airplanes, and a bomb exploding just outside the window did not cause her to move a muscle. Doctor Janet was finally able to hypnotize the patient and learned that she had unconsciously retained mental impressions of some of the incidents of the hospital.

Later she was taught to eat by leaving food beside her bed at night. In the end Doctor Janet said, he re-established the patient's connection with the outside world by establishing a system of clandestine correspondence with her. Letters, Doctor Janet said, which he left for the woman were soon answered with regularity.

From this time, he said, she began to take an interest in outside affairs, and in a comparatively short period she regained apparently complete mental control of herself. She is now, Doctor Janet said, in apparent good mental and physical health.

UTILIZES ITS STORED ENERGY

How the Camel Is Enabled to Go Without Food for Comparatively Lengthy Periods.

Popular notion has it that the camel can go for weeks without water, but this is an exaggeration; and the camel's powers of endurance are far greater in regard to food than in regard to drink, writes Lieutenant Barnes in Chamber's Journal.

A camel can continue without drinking for about four days; then, if it cannot obtain drink, it pines and dies. It may not last as long if the heat is great. This power of endurance lies in the peculiar formation of the second stomach, which is lined with cells in which the camel stores his water and utilizes it when necessary. This storehouse of water is known to Arabs, who, if they are in danger of dying from thirst often kill the beast and thus save their own lives.

The camel can endure longer without food than without drink. His hump is composed entirely of fat which he has stored away. If the time is such that he cannot obtain nourishment, he draws on this storehouse of energizing fat. After a long journey, a camel's hump is very perceptibly smaller, sometimes vanishing entirely. But as soon as food is again taken into the stomach the hump again becomes the storehouse of fat for use when another emergency shall arise.

How Cobwebs Forecast Weather.

"Cobwebs in the grass prophesy fine weather." How many times we have heard that, and, hoping for a pleasant day after a storm, have looked eagerly in the morning for spiders' webs in the wet grass? If they are there, we may feel confident that the day will be fair, for the spider is an excellent weather prophet. Henri Fabre, the wonderful old man who found out so many of the secrets of insects and their kin, tells us that the threads of the spider's web used for catching its prey are made useless by too much dampness. These threads, so tiny as to be almost invisible, are really hollow tubes filled with a sticky fluid which oozes through the walls and holds whatever touches the thread. This fluid readily absorbs the moisture from the air and would soon lose its sticky nature in the rain or fog. So the wise spider, loath to waste precious material, waits until the wet weather is virtually over before weaving the ensnaring threads. How it knows what the weather is to be is still one of the mysteries—St. Nicholas.

Why People Laugh.

Certain things in the world, whether they are funny, ludicrous, or things that produce the laughing effect, cause the brain to work certain muscles and nerves in a combination that produces a laugh. It is like a musical instrument. When a combination of notes is struck, it produces a melody or a chord. In the same way the impression sent to the brain will start the proper combination and in exactly the proper order the "laugh" order. Some things make other people laugh, while they do not affect others. That is because our brains are not always the same, in regard to receiving impressions.

and they have just been registered. It is just the place for a poor widow." Mr. Bowser, passed on to the next, and asked:

"My good woman, I come to your relief."

"Well, you are the first one who ever did," she replied. "I thought I would have to stay out here all night, but you are going to get me a house."

"Madam, I have rented a barn for you to stay in for two or three days, and then you can arrange things. You see, you can't stay out here all night."

"You have rented a barn for me?" sharply queried the woman. "What on earth do you take me for?"

"I take you for a widow in misfortune. It is a nice, clean barn. It smells of horse a little, but you will like it."

"I'm Not a Horse to Live in a Barn," soon got used to that. You see, we can't run around at night to find a house."

"But I will sit here all night before I sleep in a barn! There are nice rooms up the street about two blocks, and I could move right in there if I had $18 in cash. You don't know how nice those rooms are. There is running water, three front windows to look out of, and the roof does not leak a drop. I should be so happy living there."

Mr. Bowser hung on to his $18 and passed on to the next. The third widow was ready to say to him:

"See here, Mr. Man, I heard what you said to the other women, and if they are not horses to be tied up in a barn you needn't think I am one! I am just as good as they are! And I have never lived in a barn and never shall!"

"But, you see, it is a case of misfortune," softly replied Mr. Bowser.

"Then why don't you put your hand in your pocket and pay my rent for a month. There is a family up here who will rent their parlor to me, and I can have the privilege of the kitchen. It is a beautiful parlor, and there is gold in the paper on the wall. All they will charge me is $12 a month. Come now, what are you going to do?"

What Mr. Bowser did was to turn away and take his road home. He felt to pity, but not exactly $60 worth, with the rent of the stable added to that. As he entered the house and sat down, Mrs. Bowser raised her eyebrows, as if asking a question, and he replied:

"I got there too late. A charity society had taken charge of the widows."

No Standardized Golf Ball.

An interesting point in connection with golf is that tennis balls and baseballs have both been standardized much more than the golf ball. In golf no particular brand of ball has been adopted, but in the last year the rules have been changed by the United States Golf association and the Royal and Ancient in Britain, to specify that a ball not smaller than 1.62 inches in diameter, nor more than 1.62 ounces in weight be used in tournament golf.

The reason why no particular make of ball has been selected as official in the golf field is that only one player uses the ball in the course of the tournament, an authority said.

"In tennis and baseball there has to be not only a standard ball, but one of a particular make; because with these balls the player is asking his opponent to use the same ball. Your ball may suit your style of play yet send him off his game," Exchange.

Fish That Fight Malaria.

A fish known as Gambusia affinis, which devours the larvae of the propagator of malaria, the Anopheles mosquito, has been acclimated in Spain. Attempts to acclimatize these fish in Britain, France, and Italy, have failed.

The fish, which were imported into Spain by the American Red Cross, are being sent to large quantities to the malarial regions.

Japanese Trial by Ordeal.

Trial by ordeal still exists in some parts of Japan. If a theft takes place in a household, all the servants are requested to write a certain word with the same brush. The consequence is supposed to betray its workings in the waves of the ideographs written. Tracing an ideograph involves such an effort of muscular dexterity and undivided attention that the device often leads to the discovery of the guilty person.

Old-Time Remedies.

There still exist among us good old cures who like to think that the old days and ways were the best. That their elders were healthier and more vigorous and that the old-fashioned remedies were the superior to modern medical lore. From good-sensured old cures we agree that probably there were good old cures in many ways, but when we investigate the remedies in question even the hardy spirits who will try anything else prove to shudder. There is one recorded in "The Family Doctor," a Book of Primitive Remedies: "Balm of Gilead—Rub the part aching and covering with ointment till it is red, and rub afterwards with honey."

Water and Electricity.
The bureau of standards says if a stream of water from a hose is thrown upon high tension wires at close range there is considerable hazard from the possible conduction of electricity by the stream of water back to the hose holding the nozzle. If, however, the stream of water be thrown from a distance such that the water breaks up into drops before coming in contact with the electrical conductors, there is little danger, as such a stream of water is nonconducting.

"Penny Nails."
The term penny in connection with nails is always used in combination with prefixed numerals, such as four-penny, ten-penny, etc., to form an adjective. These adjectives now denote certain arbitrary sizes. Originally, they denoted the price per hundred of nails.

MR. BULLFROG.

"I am the king of this pond," said Mr. Bullfrog. "If anyone comes here I don't like, I swallow them! That is the way to get rid of creatures you don't like!"

"Just swallow them!" "I've heard people talking who were rowing on the pond and who were gathering pond lilies, and I've heard them say how they were interrupted by other people when they had some important work to do."

"And that the people didn't care in the least if they were interrupting!" "How annoying that must be!" To be interrupted when you must finish some work! How very, very annoying that must be."

"Goo-g-a-room, goo-g-a-room, I can imagine nothing more annoying."

"But I cannot understand why people do not swallow these other people who come and annoy them and interrupt them."

"If anyone bothered me, that is what I would do."

"Just suppose an insect hops on my nose and says:

"Sorry, Mr. Bullfrog, I do hope I'm not annoying you. I don't pay any attention to that speech. I know it's not so. If he cared about not annoying me he wouldn't land on my nose."

"But I don't bother to answer him back, for that would be beneath my dignity. So I just swallow him!"

"That's what I should think everyone would do with everyone else who annoyed them."

"Don't be polite to them! Get rid of them! Swallow them! I do the same if a sparrow annoys me! Oh yes, I do!"

"And I'm on my guard against creatures that might do that way to me. Ah, I sit by myself here in the pond, and I talk in my croaking voice whenever I feel like talking."

"When I don't feel like talking I don't talk. You see, I do things my own way."

"I have larger ears than I have eyes, and I think that is right. I am a great singer, in my opinion. And I care not for the opinion of others."

"Should a bug come along now and tell me that he didn't care for my voice, I'd swallow him!"

"I wouldn't agree with him, nor would I bother to argue with him."

"I would simply swallow him without so much as a word, though perhaps I'd smile a nice wide smile of pleasure."

"I don't care to go away from my pond. I'm a great old frog for caring for my home. Oh yes, I don't care about leaving the pond, and only do so when I must. That rarely happens."

"I let off bubbles when I go under the water, as I don't use my lungs, then."

"But I am quite happy under water, quite happy, indeed."

"Of course, I can hide myself from enemies and draw myself into the mud so they cannot get me."

"And why should they get me when I am perfectly all right? I don't want anyone to catch me. I don't need anything from anyone, and I like to be left alone."

"That's fair enough, I think."

"Goo-g-a-room, goo-g-a-room, what fine music I make!"

"Ah, bugs and flies, you are silly little creatures, for you get in the way of old Mr. Bullfrog, and old Mr. Bullfrog doesn't put up with any nonsense from little bugs and little flies."

"Nor, does he put up with any nonsense from bigger bugs and bigger flies."

"But I am glad you come around to annoy me, for you save me so often from going out in the pond a-marting for my meals."

"You do it for me, and I can sit here on my leaf-covered, muddy, wet beloved home and eat my meals without any effort so often."

"You're like little creatures for helping me that way, though you may not mean to do so. And you don't make yourselves any harder to catch because I like you."

"When some creatures find they have something that is popular to give others or to sell others, they immediately try to get more for it, but not with the little bugs and flies."

"They don't take advantage of me because I like them and come too often or try to charge big prices for themselves. No, I must say they don't do that!"

RECIPES WORTH WHILE.

A hollandaise sauce is delicious when well made, but the best of them will curdle at the last moment.

Here is one which is easy to make, true to flavor and quite reliable:

Melt in a double boiler three tablespoonfuls of butter, and two tablespoonfuls of flour and blend well. Add, gradually, one cupful of boiling water, stirring continuously until thickened. Season with one-half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of cayenne and one tablespoonful of lemon juice. More lemon juice may be added if needed for the dish with which it is served. Leave the sauce in a double boiler over the heat until it is ready to serve. Then add the yolks of two well-beaten eggs; reheat and serve at once.

Hollandaise sauce is delicious poured over tender young turnips cut in cubes, brussels sprouts or asparagus. It is fine to serve with baked or boiled fish.

Peach Cream Pie.—Bake a pastry shell and fill with sliced peaches. Pour over them the following filling: Take two cupfuls of scalded milk, one-half cupful of sugar, one-third of a cupful of flour, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, and cook together for 15 minutes. Cool, flavor with lemon and pour over the fruit. Serve topped with whipped cream.

Poached Eggs, Ham and Hollandaise.—Cook very thin slices of ham in a hot frying pan until well fried. On rounds of toasted buttered bread place a piece of ham, then a poached egg; sprinkle with salt and pepper and our hollandaise sauce over each; sprinkle with a bit of minced parsley and serve.

Golden Glow Ice Cream.—Boil together two cupfuls of sugar and one of boiling water for five minutes; add one cupful of grated pineapple, one quart can of apricots, put through a sieve, and the juice and pulp of two oranges. Scald two quarts of rich milk; add a tablespoonful of flour mixed with a little cold milk, and cook until the starch is well cooked. Blend the milk and fruit mixture, and freeze. This makes a gallon.

Prison Color Schemes. Color schemes, suggested by an expert as suitable for prisons, are pink for boy thieves, yellow or orange for convicts guilty of long-premeditated crimes and violet and black for burglars. All cells should have blue ceilings, and gray should be avoided.

THERE WAS AN OLD WOMAN WHO LIVED IN A SHOE

And, as the old story goes, "she had so many children she didn't know what to do."

There are parents today who live in houses little better than the shoe of the old nursery story, because there is no provision made for regular and sanitary bathing for the children.

Result: Insufficient bathing for the "kiddies" with consequent bad results to their health.

For their sake alone, you should install complete, sanitary bathing facilities in your home.

We can supply your every need at a reasonable price for the right kind of equipment and workmanship.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

by S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

To the American tourist who is particularly interested in economic developments, a visit to Germany at this time is an amazing revelation. For Germany is trying hard to come back, and she knows that the only way she can do so is through thrift.

This is a great truth that all the other nations of the world should thoroughly comprehend, especially America, England and France.

Germany is determined to regain a place among the great industrial and commercial nations of the world. Her political situation is bad, and the country is flooded with money of little or no value. Her people are carrying heavy burdens of taxation, and they realize that, to a great extent, the heart of the world is against them. Yet they are facing the future with grim determination and they are giving a magnificent example of thrift.

Everywhere in Germany one sees evidence of painstaking efficiency and an absence of waste. Great new buildings are going up in Berlin, Frankfurt and the industrial cities of the Rhine. Workmen with their own hands are building homes for themselves. The highways of commerce are being improved.

German chemists and inventors are poring over their studies and experiments. Disensions between employers and employees are few. On every hand there is progress and up-building.

It is a spectacle which all the world should see, because it is such a concrete example of the potency and practicality of thrift. No one can read the future with accuracy, but this much can be said with certainty: Germany is bidding hard for a place of importance among the nations of men. She has made her tragic mistakes of the past, but on one point her logic cannot be questioned. She realizes full well her only chance of rehabilitation is through intensive, consistent thrift.

Miss Dickie Trask spent her vacation at Cape Cod, Mass., and occupied her time by taking the kids in the surrounding neighborhoods on fifty bikes. Fifty kids at a time, at one dollar per bike, thereby benefiting the kiddies, herself and also the endowment fund of Radcliffe College to the extent of fifty dollars. She belongs to the class of 1922 in Radcliffe.

Lammas Day?

August 1st is Lammas Day. The origin of Lammas is indelicate, but the word signifies the reaping of the first-fruits of the earth, and more particularly that of the grain harvest.

POULTRY

GEESSE QUITE EASILY RAISED

Kept Generally in Small Flocks on Farms and Purchased by Experienced Fatteners.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There is a demand usually for young geese from June to January, although most of them are sold around Thanksgiving and Christmas. Ten-week-old goslings of the largest breeds of purebred geese weigh up to ten pounds when forced for rapid growth, and sometimes are profitably marketed at that age as green geese. Large cities containing a foreign population offer the best markets for geese.

Geese usually are killed and picked the same as other kinds of poultry, but are much more difficult to pick than chickens. Generally the veins in the back of the mouth are severed with a long-bladed knife, followed with a blow on the back of the head with a short club. The wings are picked to the first joint, and the feathers are removed from the neck half way to the head, pulling with the feathers and not back toward the head. The soft pin feathers and fine down may be removed partly by rubbing the body with moistened hands or by shaving the skin.

The dry picking of geese is rather difficult. The most common practice is to scald or steam the goose feathers before picking. This can be done over a wash boiler three-fourths full of boiling water, laying the dead goose on a burlap sack stretched tightly over the boiler, and steaming first the breast, then the back, and then each side. The whole process of steaming will not take more than two or three minutes, and the goose must be kept moving to prevent scalding the flesh. The goose is steamed until the feathers can be pulled out easily, and the head usually is laid under the breast to keep the breast from scalding. After picking, the bird is stung over an alcohol flame, the alcohol usually being burned in shallow tin plates.

Another method for removing the down is to sprinkle powdered rosin over the body of the goose and dip it into hot water, which melts the rosin so that it and the down can be rubbed off easily, leaving the body clean. Geese may also be steamed by scalding slightly and wrapping the body tightly for five minutes or longer in burlap or cloth to allow the steam to work thoroughly through the feathers. Some markets prefer dry-picked geese, while in other markets no difference is made in scalded or dry picked.

Geese are raised successfully in all parts of the United States, but are most abundant in the South and the Middle West. Slightly more than one-tenth of the farms in the United States reported geese in the census of 1910.

Mature Geese and Partly Grown Goslings Will Get Their Living From a Good Pasture So Long as the Grass Remains Green.

Practically all there are in this country are in small flocks, and few, if any, farms are devoted entirely to their raising. Fattening, however, is conducted as a special business on a large scale in the producing sections, in which case the geese are collected from the general farms, usually over a large area, and fattened for a few weeks before they are killed.

On farms where there is plenty of grass or pasture land geese can be raised successfully in small flocks. A natural supply of water is, of course, essential. The birds are very hardy, both young and old, and rarely are affected by any disease or insect pest. Grass forms the bulk of the feed, and it is doubtful whether it pays to raise them unless it is available. They are the closest known grazers. Both mature geese and partly grown goslings will get their entire living from a good pasture so long as the grass remains green. A body of water where they can swim is considered essential during the breeding season, and is a good feature the rest of the year.

MARKET UNDESIRABLE STOCK

Postscript: Should Go Over Flock and Cull Out Fowl Not Wanted for Winter.

If you have not already done so it will be well to cull out and sell off such stock as you do not intend to winter. In fact, it is generally desirable to have September and October cullings for the purpose of marketing such old and young stock as it will not pay to carry through the winter season.

of Reproduction

The Ultona, an exclusive all-record reproducer, to be obtained only on The Brunswick. It plays all makes of records at their best. Not an attachment, but a built-in part.

The Brunswick Tone Amplifier, made entirely of moulded wood, like a fine violin. Gives added richness and fullness to tone. Does away with metallic sounds.

Two exclusive features You can't buy elsewhere

THE reason so many critical music lovers prefer The Brunswick is not hard to find. It is all due to the Brunswick Method of Reproduction, two features of which are pictured above.

Tone is the chief reason for so many friends for Brunswick. And tone depends largely upon the reproducer and the tone amplifier.

In both of these features Brunswick has gone far in advance. The Ultona plays all records, not confining you to one make. And it plays each exactly as intended, with the proper diaphragm, the proper needle. Best of all, it is not a hastily contrived makeshift, but a basic invention.

The Brunswick Tone Amplifier is built entirely of wood. Not merely the part you see, but the throat between the reproducer and amplifier. The usual way is to make this throat of cast metal, a faulty way that brings metallic sounds.

You'll appreciate how far in advance The Brunswick is; you'll admire its superior tone. The proof of the pudding is—Hearing. All we ask you to do is to investigate The Brunswick with your own ears.

"LADA" APPEARS IN NEW ROLE

Miss Emily Schupp, daughter of Mrs. William Schupp of Staatsburg, better known as "Lada," the American dancer, well known in Kingston, is assuming the role of a benefactress to the poor children of New York. Thousands of school children on both the east side and the west sections of New York have for the past several weeks been receiving apples free through the courtesy of Miss Schupp and distributed personally by her with the aid of New York policemen.

Miss Schupp has endeavored to cover her identity by asking to be known as "plain Mrs. Lada."

"I had a large fruit crop," she said, in explanation of her gift to the children. "So I asked the police captain if I could distribute these apples and he said, 'Go as far as you like.'"

Mrs. William Schupp, mother of Miss Schupp, stated Friday that her daughter had been distributing thousands of apples for the past several weeks and that the apples were from the big crop on their estate known as Pawling Manor Farms.

Dr. Sanderson, in his resignation, said that his reason for quitting is that the board of public works has failed to make his appointment permanent after his name had been on the eligible list of the civil service commission for more than eight months. Dr. Sanderson's resignation was accepted by the board. No action has been taken as to the selection of a successor. Dr. Sanderson had charge of the county laboratory in Kingston when it was first opened.

CALL FOR LOWER RAILROAD WAGES

Lower Rates, Abolition of Rail Labor Board and Repeal of Adamson Law Also Probable Recommendations of Committee of Unemployment Conference.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Immediate reduction of railway freight rates and wages, abolition of the railroad labor board and the repeal of the Adamson eight hour law may be recommended next week to President Harding's unemployment conference by a majority of the committee on emergency measures for manufacturers, it was indicated by member of the conference today.

"Oppressive railroad freight rates are primarily responsible for the existing industrial depression and unemployment," W. H. Stackhouse of Springfield, Ohio, declared as he boarded a train for his home after resigning as chairman of the committee during a stormy two hour session. Stackhouse was succeeded by James A. Campbell of Youngstown, Ohio, who stated that the former's retirement from the conference was not due to friction within the committee.

Campbell has called another meeting of the committee for Monday when the members will prepare their recommendations for presentation to the conference on the following day.

Despite strenuous opposition from Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Mrs. Sarah Conboy of New York secretary of the United Textile Workers of America, it is understood that the committee has practically decided to urge sweeping reductions of railroad wages as one of the first steps in correcting existing depression and to relieve unemployment.

Gompers left the committee room visibly agitated, but refused what took place in the closed executive session.

"I will continue to meet with the committee as long as I can," the veteran labor leader said. "When that is no longer possible I shall make my position clear."

SCHANTZ ENTERS PRIMARY CONTEST

Prevailed on to Become Candidate for Republican Nomination for Supervisor of Town of Lloyd.

Friends of ex-Sheriff Philip Schantz of Highland have prevailed on him to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for supervisor of the town of Lloyd, where the town primary to make nominations for town officers will be held on Tuesday night. Mr. Schantz has served the town as supervisor for practically twenty-eight years, during which time the town made many improvements to highways, bridges, etc. During his term in the county legislature he was chairman of the board of supervisors for three terms. Six years ago Mr. Schantz was succeeded by Luther D. Wiklow of Highland who is now serving as supervisor and who is understood to be a candidate for the position of postmaster of Highland. Mr. Wiklow will run in the primary on Tuesday night. Mr. Schantz finally gave his consent to his friends to become a candidate on Thursday of this week. The enrolled Republicans of the town of Lloyd are deeply interested in the nomination for supervisor and the primary on Tuesday night is expected to be the largest Republican primary held in the town in many years. The caucus will be held at the moving picture building promptly at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening.

KINGSTON AT SARATOGA TODAY

The football squad of Kingston High School football team invaded Saratoga Springs this afternoon to play the high school team of that place. Although Kingston was swamped at Albany last Saturday they have been putting in some hard work the past week, and expect to return home with the scalp of the Saratogians.

REP'N TICKET IN MARLBOROUGH

The town of Marlborough has been in a state of excitement for some time over the question of who would win the nomination for supervisor on the Republican ticket. As many as twelve names were entered in the race and a joke was rife in the county that if any town was short of supervisor timber, apply to the town of Marlborough, as they had enough and to spare.

It was logical, therefore, that one of the largest and most interesting caucuses ever held in the town assembled at the Rink building in the village of Marlborough Friday evening, fully one third being women voters. The contest had simmered down to three candidates when the meeting was called to order, Edward Young, C. Meach Woolsey and Charles Hartshorn.

On the first ballot the result was: Young, 254; Hartshorn, 105; Woolsey, 62; scattering, 9.

The following were the other town officials nominated: C. N. Andrews, town clerk; Frank Horton, collector; C. G. Mackey, Charles R. Taber, E. V. Covert, assessors; John Ball, Doyley Hutchins, Thomas McManus, (to fill vacancy), justices of the peace; George Hallock, E. W. Warren, poormasters; Elmer Yeaples, E. D. Smith, Peter Donovan, Charles Matrazzo, constables; Eliza Keates Young, Warren M. Grimley (to fill vacancy), school directors.

One Thousand Miles From Land.
It is possible for a ship to reach a point in the ocean where it is 1,000 miles from land in any direction. In fact, this can be done at several points.

By leaving San Francisco or Vancouver and sailing into the north Pacific a spot is reached where there is no land, not even an islet, for a thousand miles in any direction. So, too, sailing from the southern point of ancient Kamohatua southward, a ship will reach a point more than a thousand miles from land, the nearest to the north being the Aleutian Islands, and to the south the Sandwich Islands, or Hawaii. In the Southern Indian ocean it is possible to sail a thousand miles out from the southern points of Australia and New Zealand, and still be as far away from any other land; and the same may be done in a westerly direction from Cape Horn.

Ingratitude Always Monstrous.
Ingratitude is monstrous; and for the multitude to be ungrateful were to make a monster of the multitude.—Shakespeare.

Funeral services will be private on Monday with interment in the Kyserville cemetery. Friends wishing to view the remains may do so Sunday evening between the hours of 6 and 9 o'clock at the residence of his son on Abrynn street.

County Judge George Addington of Albany county died Friday night at his home in Albany after an illness of five months. Death was due to acute Bright's disease. For three weeks he had been confined to his bed and since last Thursday night he had been unconscious. Throughout the latter part of his illness he had requested that his condition should not be announced as serious and consequently but few friends expected his death. Judge Addington had many friends in Ulster county. He was born in Albany and began earning his living as a newsboy. He was extremely popular in Albany city and county, which was evidenced by his carrying primaries and elections repeatedly. In 1894 he was elected judge of the city court and in 1897 was re-elected, being the only successful candidate on the Republican ticket. He was elected district attorney in 1901 by the largest majority of any candidate on the ticket and was re-elected in 1904. He was elected county judge in 1907 and re-elected in 1913. He was the first county judge in New York state to whom the state legislature conferred jurisdiction to try cases of murder in the first degree. His life-long ambition was to become a justice of the supreme court. Three years ago he was a candidate for the nomination and entered the Republican primary as an independent candidate against Judge Harold J. Hinman, who had been designated by the regular organization of Albany county. He made a wonderful run in Albany county but was defeated in the district. Ulster county gave a majority for Judge Hinman. Besides numerous charitable and patriotic activities, Judge Addington was active socially. He was a member of many fraternal organizations, was a thirty-third degree Mason and preceded Mayor Canfield as grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of New York state. Judge Addington was sixty-one years old. His wife died in May, 1920, and he is survived by one half-brother and one half-sister. A fact little known about him was his personal interest in men whom he had sentenced to prison after their return to civil life, and he frequently gave them money with which to get a fresh start in life. His greatest failing was his great generosity.

S. GRAY SUES HIS DAUGHTER

To Recover Property Surrendered to Her, He Asserts, Under Threat of Being Sent to State Hospital—Has Married Miss Moore And Regained Health.

There has been filed with the Ulster county clerk by Judge Clearwater, counsel for plaintiff of a summons, complaint, affidavit, undertaking and injunction order with affidavit of services by Under-sheriff Tunis Haulenbeck, the papers in a Supreme court action brought by Samuel Gray against Ethel M. Gray. The parties reside in this city, the plaintiff being a retired broker in grain and the owner of a majority of the capital stock of the Ulster Hotel Company which owns the Hotel Staynesant. The defendant is his daughter who resides at 21 Albany avenue.

The summons and complaint alleges that prior to June 14, 1920, the plaintiff was the owner, seized and in possession of certain real property in the city of Kingston, known as No. 31 Albany avenue, of the value of upward of $200,000; also owned and possessed of certain securities and chattel property of substantially the value of $200,000, which are enumerated in the papers filed. Plaintiff states his wife died on or about November 16, 1918, and that his only heir-at-law and next of kin was his daughter, the defendant, who resided with him at his residence on Albany avenue. That he was greatly distressed and disturbed by the death of his said wife, had become highly nervous, weak and ill, and that while in this condition a proceeding was begun in supreme court by Abby Smith of Haines Falls, in which petition it was alleged that plaintiff (Gray) was of unsound mind and incompetent to manage himself or his affairs in consequence of lunacy and inability arising from senile dementia and other infirmities, and that he was incapable and incompetent to transact business. It was alleged that plaintiff during the alleged incompetency had conveyed personal property consisting of a diamond ring of the value of $700, and money to the probable amount of $1,000 to one Verna Moore without consideration. That the said Abby Smith had prayed the court that a committee might be appointed of the person and estate of plaintiff, and upon that information, and belief said Abby Smith in the making of said petition and beginning of said proceeding was persuaded and induced so to do by the plaintiff's daughter, the defendant herein, and by other persons who assisted his said daughter in depriving the plaintiff of the ownership and enjoyment of his said real and chattel property as has been alleged. The complaint of Mr. Gray cites affidavits of Dr. George F. Chandler and Dr. E. H. Loughran of this city in which it was stated that plaintiff was incapable of caring for himself or his property or estate; also affidavit of Arthur Ellison, that plaintiff was suffering from loss of memory and an affidavit of Florence Kraft, stating that plaintiff had told her he would marry Verna Moore and give her all of his property.

Notice was served upon him (the plaintiff) that the petition of Abby Smith and affidavits would be presented at a special term of the supreme court to be held at the court house on June 5, 1920, and upon the reception of which plaintiff was shocked, stunned and stupefied and his weak, sick and nervous condition was greatly enhanced and made worse thereby, and that while in such condition, feeble health and susceptible to be easily frightened, the defendant and her attorneys, agents, representatives and assistants, intending to take advantage of the plaintiff's condition and of the relations existing between the plaintiff and the defendant, and to get possession of the plaintiff's property, threatened plaintiff that unless he would at once convey and surrender to the defendant all of the real estate and personal property of his, he, the plaintiff would be sent to the Middletown State Hospital for the Insane, confined there during the remainder of his life.

Plaintiff alleges that, being frightened and terrorized, and fully believing that the threat would be carried into execution, he at once surrendered his real and chattel property to the defendant on June 14, 1920, and that immediately upon the execution by the plaintiff of the deed and agreement defendant took possession of the property hereinbefore specified and since then has had full possession without consideration. That long before beginning of the proceedings hereinbefore alleged, plaintiff had generously provided for defendant by giving to her real and chattel properties, securities and moneys approximately to the value of $60,000; also that defendant obtained from him $7,000 which she represented to plaintiff was imperative to have to pay to the lawyers engaged in the conduct of the proceedings set forth in order that they would not further proceed with the same. It is further charged that defendant has failed to pay to plaintiff balance of income as agreed to defendant had paid taxes, expenses, upkeep, etc., of residence etc., and that defendant has not done so and on the contrary she has snatched her fingers in his face and said she could and would turn him out of his house at any moment she chose, and that the property referred to was hers, and that she could do what she liked with it.
